100 Batman Games, Hobbies and Pastimes

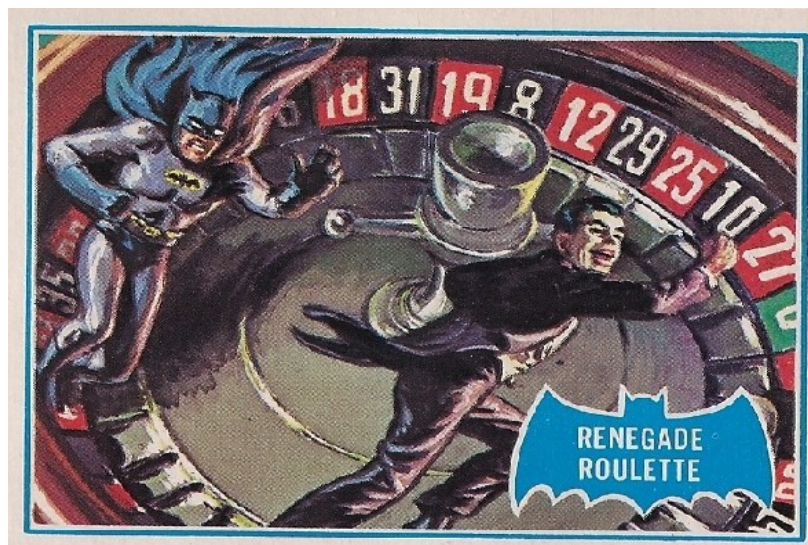

is one of the major collectable literary characters of all time and, over an almost 75 year history, there have been literally thousands of Batman related items produced - significantly more than for any other single TV, movie or comic book character except perhaps for Mickey Mouse.

This was always going to be a difficult list to compile. This is mainly due to the fact that just about everything made for Batman fits somewhere within this category. So, in compiling this list, I tried to focus upon items with a 'sit down' play value. Items like card and board games, paint sets and colouring books, puzzles and games of skill, model kits and crafts etc.

But with such a huge amount of items to choose from it was still a challenge to get a balance that reflected the great diversity of items manufactured in countries all around the world. Even now that it is completed someone is still bound to point out what they feel is a glaring omission. So, if I have left out a particular favourite of yours, please accept my apologies.

Once again no monetary values are included. An item is only worth what someone is willing to pay for it and tastes and requirements are constantly changing. A rule of thumb would seem to be that the more commonly available items have stagnated somewhat while the world continues through the current economic crisis, while rarer items appear immune to global events and still command good prices.

here we go....
